LEGISLATORS KILL HIRST BILL, ADJOURN

VOTE MAY MEAN SPECIAL SESSION; NO ROAD FUNDS

LEGISLATION OF PRESENT SESSION MARKED BY AVERSION TO RADICAL CHANGES; APPROPRIATIONS TOTAL $16,000,000

(By Associated Press)

Madison, June 24.—The legislative program was thrown into a turmoil today when the assembly, in what was said to be the longest hours of the session, reconsidered its vote on the Hirst highway privilege tax bill and then killed the measure, which would raise $4,000,000 annually, by a vote of 45 to 33.

This may mean a continued session or a special session in order that the state may be provided with funds to go on with the highway work. It is rumored that the governor may veto some of the large appropriation bills on the ground that the revenue of the state will not be sufficient to meet the outlays which the legislature has authorized.

Vote to Adjourn

The automobile privilege tax bill went to an unexpected refeat as it had already gone to the third reading by a 2 to 1 vote early in the week. It had been practically agreed that it would be rushed through without delay.

Assemblyman Dahl, author of various surtax bills, took the floor against the measure when it was brought up for report, declaring that it was only an unnecessary appropriation for the highway program when the state was not prepared for it.

The legislature adjourned today but a number of members of the houses remained over to pass on bills which were important, and to be present to receive communications from Governor Blaine.

Madison, Wis., June 24—The legislature which completed its business today has been conservative in acceptance of the program of suggested new laws. There has been an ever-present disposition on the part of both houses to proceed slowly in favoring measures that would bring marked changes in the existing order of affairs.

This attitude has resulted in the rejection of most of the legislative program recommended by Governor Blaine in his first message. It has also brought about the defeat of nearly all untried proposals advanced by individual members of both houses during the session.

Most important of new legislation is the new marketing law, creating a department with broad powers over business; the agricultural bill providing manufacture or sale of condensed milk from cocoanut oils; the Peterson bill providing for elective boards of education with authority to raise taxes.

Following close on these new laws in importance are the Nye junior college bill introducing a new state education policy of decentralized opportunities for higher education by establishing college courses in high schools; the reorganization of the $1,000,000 teachers' retirement fund; the Arnold bill doubling inheritance taxes, and the revamping of corporation laws.

Most important measures which have gone through both houses and received the approval of Governor Blaine follow:

Labor

14-A, Killian, prohibiting the advertising for labor of children requiring labor permit.

208-A, Perry, providing for two platoon system for fire departments in cities.

280-A, French, modification of child labor laws.

433-A, Sachtjen, increasing benefits under workmen's compensation.

435-A, Sachtjen, relating to child labor.

436-A, Sachtjen, permitting cities to appropriate money to public welfare societies.

27-C, Czerwinski, providing one day rest in eight for policemen in cities of the first class.

114-S, Bird, permits physicians to give valid testimony in civil actions.

197-S, Huber, regulating of sweatshop labor by the Industrial Commis-

DE VALERA ARRESTED; GEORGE ORDERS RELEASE

Dublin, June 23.—Eamonn de Valera, "president of the Irish republic," was arrested last night in a house between Dublin and Kingstown by members of the Worcestershire regiment during a routine raid.

The house was searched and, as a number of incriminating documents were found, the sole occupant was arrested by the troops, who did not know his identity.

As soon as the arrest was reported to general headquarters in Dublin the prisoner was ordered released immediately under a general order from Prime Minister Lloyd George that he be not interfered with.

EX-SOLDIERS HAVE WEEK FOR REINSTATEMENT OF INSURANCE

Former service men and women have only a week more to reinstate war risk insurance policies which have lapsed, the time limit for such reinstatement expiring on June 30. Old policies on which the premiums are unpaid may be renewed if applications are filed by that date; the date of arrival at the Bureau of War Risk Insurance in Washington does not affect the validity of the claim for reinstatement.

Application blanks and necessary information may be obtained at the office of R. M. Gibson, MacKinnon block, who has expressed his willingness to help any ex-service man in the adjustment of difficulties pertaining to government insurance. Many policies have lapsed because the soldier has failed to realize the advantages of government insurance, Mr. Gibson says; immediate action will restore the policy through the payment of the premium for the current month and for one additional month. Conversion of term insurance to other forms may be made at the same time. Application for victory medals may also be made through Mr. Gibson.

FIRST WOMAN RANGER RECEIVES APPOINTMENT

Bozeman, Mont., June 24—Miss Marguerite Lindsley, a junior student in Montana State college here, is the first woman ever to be named as ranger in Yellowstone National park. Word of her appointment has been received here.

Miss Lindsley is anticipating no difficulty in pointing out to tourists the beauties and the wonders of the government playground, however, for the geysers and the hot springs are as familiar to her as the drinking fountains and the fire plugs are to many a city dweller. She is on terms of acquaintance with most of the birds and the beasts, and knows every hill and valley in the big reserve.

The new ranger's father, C. A. Lindsley, is assistant superintendent of the park and has been connected with the government service there for 27 years. Miss Lindsley has spent every summer of her life in the park.

DELIVER ARMY PLANES FOR BORDER SERVICE

Nogales, Arizona, June 24—Eight American made planes have been delivered at Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, for the border patrol of the Mexican government, and are to be put into that service as soon as they can be assembled. All the planes are painted blue, which has been adopted as the distinctive color for Mexican border patrol planes.

The United States government already maintains an air patrol along the border.

AIR OFFICIALS PLAN FOR LARGE HANGAR

Honolulu, T.H.— The navy's birdmen, who wing their way out over the Pacific from their base at Ford Island, Pearl Harbor, will have a new $1,250,000 nest there early in 1922, according to naval authorities. Bids recently were opened in Washington and it is expected that dirt will be flying within a month.

Washington, June 24—William Miller Collier, president of the George Washington University here, was nominated today by President Harding as ambassador to Chili.

SOLDIERS ON RHINE SMUGGLE COCAINE FRENCHMAN STATES

YANKS ON LEAVE ACT AS COURIERS FOR NARCOTIC SMUGGLERS WORKING IN PLANES, PARIS OFFICIAL SAYS

Paris, June 24—American soldiers on leave from the Rhineland are charged with being principal agents in the extension of the cocaine traffic in France, which has reached such proportions as to draw a cry of alarm and protest from the French Academy of Medicine. Dr. Courtois Suffit, who has made a special study of the traffic, its ramifications, methods and effects, informed the academy that nearly all of the narcotic was introduced into France from Germany by soldiers on leave, who act as couriers for smugglers higher up.

Use Airplanes

On the Franco-German frontier, since three months ago, smugglers have taken to passing across the frontier in airplanes, which drop five or ten pounds at a prearranged spot, where agents are waiting with a touring car. Owing to the number of army planes making practice flights, the smugglers invariably escape notice.

Mixed With Sugar

Once the cocaine, which is procured easily in Germany at 300 to 600 francs per kilogram, reaches headquarters of the gang, it is mixed in powdered borax, sugar or rice powder. Thus five pounds of pure cocaine, costing 1,000 francs, is sold in the adulterated state at 100,000 francs.

$500,000 EXTENDED FOR SUFFRAGE CAUSE

New York—Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, the legatee receiving $1,254,389 estate of Mrs. Frank Leslie, announced on Thursday that $500,000 of the estate had been spent for woman suffrage work in the United States and the remainder would soon be consumed in the American dependencies of the Philippines, Porto Rico, and Hawaii. Funds also were supplied, she said, to suffrage campaigns in Hungary, Switzerland, Italy, France and Belgium.

PLAN STEAMSHIP LINE TO AID WEST SHIPPERS

Manila, P. I.—If the planters and the Insular Government of the Philippines will cooperate in the project, the United States Shipping Board is prepared to inaugurate a steamship service to small ports of the Visayan and the southern islands of the Philippine archipelago, that will put shippers in direct touch with their markets abroad by means of through bills of lading.

With a view to inaugurating such a steamship service, Joseph P. Marias, head of the shipping board in the Philippines, has just completed a trip to the southern ports, including those of Mindanao. "One important thing required for the development of these smaller ports," said Mr. Marias, "is a dock-building plan. Instead of dribbling small appropriations out of these smaller ports," said Mr. Marias, "places from year to year, which are too smal lfor the undertaking of adequate projects each year, a larger sum should be spent to construct a dock and provide facilities at one port."

Mr. Marias assured the planters in the vicinity of Davao, the principal port of southern Mindanao, that if the service is once started by the shipping board, it would be continued indefinitely. He said he would regard it as a feeder service for deep water ships, similar to routes which have been recently established in China.

Weather predictions for this vicinity, according to Weather Observer, Geo. T. Nixon are increasing cloudiness and probably showers tonight or tomorrow. Somewhat cooler after the showers.

The disturbance which was off the west coast of the Gulf of Mexico yesterday has moved inland and is causing rain in Oklahoma and Missouri with moderate winds. There have been no marked changes in temperature since yesterday, and warm weather is general throughout the country. Temperatures were from 85 to 90 throughout Iowa and Illinois yesterday and light rains have fallen in the southwest and middle and lower Missouri valleys. We will probably have unsettled weather in this vicinity tonight or tomorrow.

CHAUTAUQUA OPENS ON WEST SIDE SQUARE TOMORROW

It was definitely announced this afternoon that the site of the Chautauqua which opens here tomorrow will be the West Side Market square. Efforts were being made to secure the park in the rear of the county jail, but for fear of setting a precedent which it would be inadvisable to follow, city officials decided to use the Market square.

The 1921 chautauqua program will be opened Saturday night by the Firchtl's Original Alpine Yodlers, who will give a grand concert and entertainment. The Yodlers are a group of five genuine Swiss musical entertainers, appearing in a program of instrumental and vocal music that thrills the audience with their originality and ability to reproduce the charming echo songs and yodles of the Alpine people.

Miss Verda Wood, junior worker and Superintendent Cramer, advance worker, of the Mutual Chautauqua entertained a group of youngsters, on the lawn opposite the court house with games and songs, this morning. Miss Wood will be in charge of the children's chautauqua during the coming week and is busily at work preparing the program. All children interested in the junior chautauqua should report Saturday morning to Miss Wood at the west side market square where their parts will be outlined to them.

Reported ticket sale Wednesday evening numbered 294 and the committee in charge have hopes of raising the total up to 400 by tonight, 500 tickets sold before opening night is the goal that workers are striving for.

(By Associated Press)

Chicago, Ill., June 24. Grover O. Redding and Oear McGabic, negroes, were hanged together at 7:27 o'clock this morning for killing R. C. Rose, a sailor, in connection with the "Abyssinian riot" last June. Both appeared cool when they walked to the scaffold.

Both slept well last night and Redding ate a big breakfast this morning. The so-called "Abyssinian riot" occured June 20, 1920, when a band of negroes led by Redding, calling themselves the Brothers of Abyssinia, started a movement for the return of negroes to Africa.

The party conclued with a noisy demonstration and burning of the American flag. Rose was shot when he went to rescue the flag. One other man was killed and two wounded in the confusion which followed.

HEAVY TRAFFIC SHOWN IN JOINT COUNT AT CROSSING

Pursuant to the request of the railroad commission in its hearing of the petition for a viaduct at the Second avenue south railroad crossing, a joint traffic census was taken by the city officials and representatives of the Northwestern road yesterday. The count covered a period of nineteen and a half hours, between 5:30 a. m. yesterday and 1 a. m. today.

The city figures show that during that time the tracks at the crossing in question were crossed by 841 automobiles carrying 1685 people, 78 trucks carrying 139 people, 36 wagons and carriages carrying 56 people, 44 motorcycles and bicycles carrying 47 people, and 287 pedestrians. The total for the nineteen and a half hours is 1036 vehicles and 2840 people, or an average of 53.1 vehicles and 145.6 people per hour. In the same length of time, 38 street cars carring 630 people crossed Second avenue at the intersection.

Aside from the interest conveyed in the figures as evidence of the danger at the intersection it may be pointed out that for every horse drawn vehicle making the crossing there were 25 automobiles or trucks.

'My sympathy has been aroused in the effort your organization is making to raise funds for suffering unfortunate children of Central Europe. I am impressed that the time has come when the old asperities of the war period may properly be forgotten in the face of such humanitarian efforts. The real ideal of human brotherhood will best and soonest be realized through the encouragement of such works as this."

FIND NEW ANSWER FOR "WHY IS THE FOURTH OF JULY?"

FEW KNOW THE REASON FOR THE AMERICAN CELEBRATION ON THE FOURTH OF JULY; ONE ANSWER NEARLY CORRECT

The average American youth may know all about Babe Ruth's home run record and Jack Dempsey's list of knockouts but when it comes to history, and American history at that, they are what we might call slightly behind the times. Nine youngsters and others not so young, ranging in age from eight to 23 were asked the question, "Why do we celebrate the Fourth of July?" and only one out of thirteen came close to the correct answer. A Tribune representative entered a local place of business and offered to buy a treat for the one giving the first correct answer to the question, but left without any slump in his pocketbook.

Doesn't Know Date

Following is a list of the persons questioned and their answers:

Wilmot Damprer, First avenue north, age 12, fifth grade: "They celebrate the Fourth for some kind of a war because it was the day the war ended."

Francis Otto, Third avenue south, age 10, third grade: "We celebrate the Fourth to have some fun but I don't know on what date it comes."

Milton Arnott, age 12, sixth grade: "The French and Indian war ended on that date and we celebrate the end of end of the war."

Lawrence Rhodigier, age 8, third grade: "The civil war ended on that date."

Charlotte Cummings, Tenth street, age 10, fifth grade: "I think the civil war ended on that date."

"Penn Signed the Treaty"

Harold Bell, age 17, high school senior: "We celebrate the Fourth because that is the ay that the war ended and when William Penn signed the treaty."

Albert Peterson, age 23: "We celebrate the Fourth because Thomas Jefferson signd the Declaration of Independence, July 4, 1776, in Vermont."

Richard Damprer, First avenue north, age 9, third grade: "We celebrate because that is the day that Abraham Lincoln discovered America."

Carl Christianson, age 20: "That was the day that John Quincy Adams signed the Declaration of Independence and we have celebrated it ever since."

William Schnabel, age 17, senior: "Some war, I don't remember which, ended on that day and Benjamin Franklin signed the peace treaty."

Answer Nearly Correct

Maynard Hahner, age 12, seventh grade: "We celebrate the Fourth because on July 4, 1776, Thomas Jefferson signed the Declaration of Independence, in Philadelphia, and we seceded from England."

Harry Lau, age 13, eighth grade: "That was the day that the Declaration of Independence was signed in New York."

Lester Loschky, Arpin, age 13, eighth grade: "We always celebrate the Fourth because that is the day that Jefferson Davis signed the Declaration of Independence."

Maynard Hahner gave the answer that was the nearest to being correct, although according to history he "slipped up" on a portion of the answer. Thomas Jefferson was not the only one who signed the Declaration of Independence and in fact did not sign it until after John Hancock had put his "John Hancock" on the important paper.

United States and Great Britain Must Be Friends to Save Civilization.

By REPRESENTATIVE PHIL. KELLEY of Michigan

If the present administration can bring about an agreement for reduction of armaments on a proper basis, its achievement will be notable and the benefits conferred upon mankind almost beyond calculation. Of course, any thought of reducing armament without similar action on the part of other nations would be criminal. Everything depends upon the joint action of leading nations.

In the last analysis, however, the question is largely one to be settled by Great Britain and the United States. These two peoples are in a position to lift a heavy burden from the shoulders of a world already loaded with debt and taxation.

The United States and Great Britain must act in accord and must be friends if the civilization of the world is to be saved. In my judgment the surest basis of friendship for these two great nations is equality upon the seas. With each nation recognizing the other as an equal there will arise but few occasions for wide disagreement. We have much to bind us together and but little to divide us or produce permanent misunderstanding.

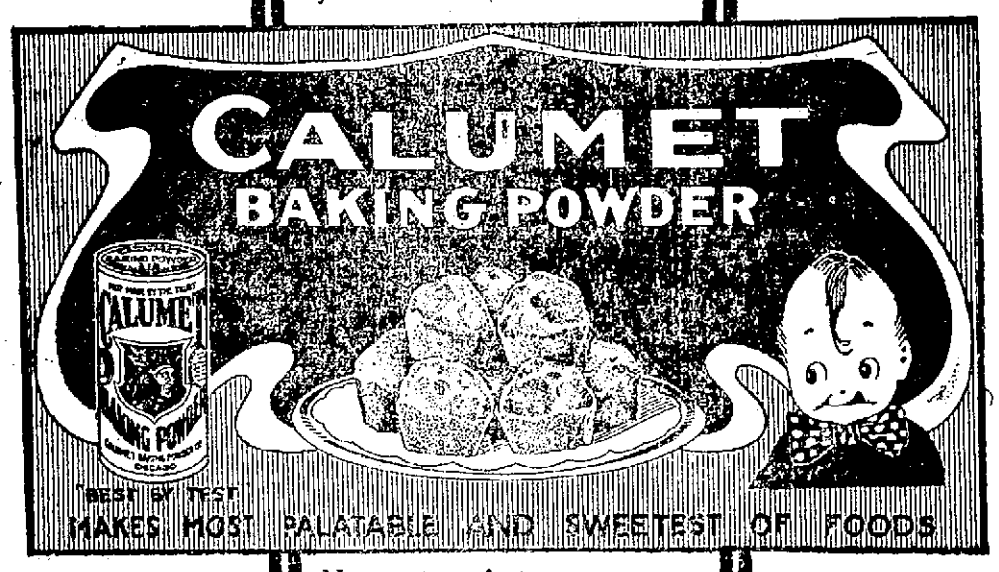
EVERY cent you spend over the price of Calumet might as well be thrown away. You don't get a thing for it. You can't get greater leavening strength or greater purity than are offered in Calumet.

It is made in the world's largest, best equipped and most sanitary Baking Powder Factories.

Contains only such ingredients as have been officially endorsed by the U. S. Food Authorities.



No matter what you pay you can't secure as much in sound baking powder quality.

On the other hand—you can buy a cheaper baking powder—a little lower in price than Calumet—and much lower in merit. That's the worst kind of false economy.

Calumet never fails. Every baking is perfectly raised—sweet, even and tasty.

Used by millions of housewives and is the largest selling brand in the world.

A pound can of Calumet contains full 16 oz. Some baking powders come in 12 oz. cans instead of 16 oz. cans. Be sure you get a pound when you want it.

Detroit—Singles by McManus, Lee Vangilder and Tobin in the twelfth inning gave St. Louis a 6 to 4 victory over Detroit Thursday afternoon. After trailing the Browns until the eighth inning, the Tigers scored three runs and took the lead, but in the ninth, St. Louis evened the count when Williams hit into the right field bleachers for a home run.

Boston—Babe Ruth made his twenty-fifth home run of the season in the fifth inning on Thursday with a man on first. The ball landed two-thirds of the way up the right field bleachers and is believed to have been the longest drive he ever made into those stands. New York won the final game of the series, 6 to 1.

Philadelphia—Philadelphia on Thurdky won the deciding game of the series with Washington, 5 to 3, bunching ten hits in three innings. Outfielder Frank Walker, was released by Philadelphia to Rocky Mound of the Virginia league, from which club he was secured last year

Chicago—Dick Kerr held Cleveland to five scattered hits on Thursday and scored his fourth consecutive victory of the season when Chicago bunched hits off Coveleskie and shut out world's champions, 6 to 0. In addition to Kerr's superb pitching, three lightning double plays executed by the locals featured.

Cincinnati—Chicago combined timely hits with Cincinnati errors and defeated the Reds on Thursday, 6 to 3. The locals made thirteen hits, but lost their opportunities by poor team work in the pinches.

New York—The New York Nationals turned the tables on Boston here on Thursday and easily won the last game of the series by a score of 10 to 4. The Giants hit Scott, Watson and Braxton freely. Frisch's hitting featured. He drove out a home run and two singles and batted in four runs.

Brooklyn—Brooklyn made it three straight from the Phillies on Thursday, winning a listless game, 6 to 4. Causey was hit hard and received poor upport. Griffith and Johnston made home runs.

Indianapolis—John Paul Jones had Toledo baffled until he let down in the ninth inning on Thursday, with the game far out of reach of the visitors, and Indianapolis won the final of the series, 9 to 4. Only four scattered hits were made off Jones until the final frame, when Toledo counted three times on four singles.

Louisville—Louisville made it four out of five in the series with Columbus had gone ahead in her half of the seventh. Wilson walked the first two batters and was replaced by Danforth. The only ball he threw toward the plate was to left field for a triple by Betzel, scoring both base runners.

Milwaukee—Jack Egan's hurlers are back in their early season form.

The Brewer carving corps gave a ludicrous exhibition of heaving again on Thursday, and the Egans dropped their fifth consecutive game to the Millers, who climbed over the Colonels to first place, thanks to a barrage of base hits dropped by Cantillon's clouters. The score were 9 to 3 and 8 to 6.

FORMER BASEBALL STAR WILL BE POLICE CHIEF

Janesville, Wis.—This city will have a new chief of police July 15, when Thomas Morrissy is asked to retire in favor of Charles Newman, former National league ball player and now employed at Brodhead. Chief Morrissy, who has held the office for two years, is expected to go back to his former job of night captain of the police force. Lack of executive ability is given by the fire and police commission in making the change. Newman was center fielder for two years for the New York Nationals and later played with Detroit for three years.

The Home of the Soul

In olden times it was believed that the seat of the soul was the stomach most likely for the reason that a man is never so completely used up as when his stomach is out of order. For the cure of ordinary stomach troubles, there is nothing quite so prompt and satisfactory as Chamberlain's Tablets. They strengthen the stomach and enable it to perform its function naturally. Give them a trial. They only cost a quarter. —Advertisement.

ONE KILLED IN AUTO CRASH NEAR SHEBOYGAN

Sheboygan, Wis.—Sheboygan county authorities are on the lookout for a big car with yellow lenses in the headlights, following a collision west of Sheboygan Falls, at midnight Wednesday, which resulted in the death of one and serious injury to another man.

The car was ditched and turned on its side, both men being thrown partly out and rendered unconscious. The machine then took fire and came near being a funeral pyre for the two men. Both were rushed to the hospital at Plymouth, Wis., where Yenekevicz died of a fractured skull.

LABOR CONVENTION HAS BIG PROGRAM

IMPORTANT MEASURES AWAIT DISPOSITION; ELECTION OF OFFICERS LAST THING SCHEDULED.

(By Associated Press).

Dnver, Colo., June 24. Election of officers, the demand for women for equal rights and privileges in all labor unions, detrmination of future relations with European trade union movtments and jurisdictional disputes were the &major isspes confronting the annual convention of the Amtrican Federation of Labor.

Although the convention has been in session nearly two wetks, an unusual volume of work remain. Night sessions are probable so all business can be transacted by Sunday morning. Election of officers will be held on the last day.

Women Ask Union Right

The committee on international relations will report unfavorably the two resolutions submitted to the convention by the International Association of Machinists and Firemen and the Oilers Union demanding that President Gompers immediately be instructed to reaffiliate the federation with the International Federation of Trades Union.

The women delegates have united to support the resolution that women be allowed "all privileges of membership in the union of their trade or industry." They are denied membership in any union, and they ask to obtain a separate charter from the convention.

Gompers Scores Lewis Stand

The announcement of John L. Lewis of the platform on which he is running for president of the federation, brought a stattment from Persident Gompers who declared that it was not right to make a platform in the labor movement.

Mr. Lewis, in his announcement, yesterday, declared for nationalization of the mines, government ownership of the railroads and "other progressive policies."

EARLY POTATOES NEED GOOD CARE

Weak and Improperly Filled Containers and Lack of Ventilation Cause of Loss.

DISCARD DISEASED PRODUCT

Load With Care to Prevent Shifting and Breakage—Sacks and Hampers Not Suitable—Loading on Bilge Is Not Safe.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

More care in loading cars will prevent much damage in shipments of new potatoes, say specialists of the bureau of markets, United States Department of Agriculture, discussing methods of loading and types of containers in use. Shifting of the loads in transit, weak and partly filled packages, and lack of proper ventilation are found to be responsible for losses in many cars arriving at markets. Caution against loading diseased potatoes is also urged because of the large number of shipments that show scab, wilt, or late blight, and in some cases are practically worthless when they reach the market.

Press Potatoes Firmly in Barrels.

The double-headed ventilated barrel, it is said, appears to be the best package for new potatoes that is now in general use. If properly made, it protects the potatoes as well as holds them in place. Much less breakage has been found in cars where the barrels are loaded on end than when loaded on their bilge. Wooden strips should be placed on top of the lower layers of barrels for the upper layers to rest upon.

There is one serious objection to this method of loading. In some instances the barrels appear to be slack measure when they arrive at the market, due to the jolting in transit. This fault, however, it is said, can be largely eliminated if growers will fill their barrels full and use a press when heading.

Loading barrels on their bilge is said not to be a safe practice unless headliners (strips to prevent heads bulging) are used. It is said that the use of headliners would prevent nine-tenths of the breakage in all types of loads with barrels. Records show that practically every car has from 3 to 30 or more barrels broken on arrival at the market. Extra bracing is needed when barrels are loaded on their bilge.

What Happens When Barrels Are Loaded on Their Bilge—Characteristic Breakage in a Car of Double-Headed Barrels—The Heads Give Way and the Barrels Collapse From the Weight Above, Causing Bruising and Mashing of the Potatoes.

Prevent Barrels Rolling.

Wooden strips should be placed across the floor at frequent intervals in order to prevent the lower barrels from rolling. Use of rocks for this purpose localizes the strain and causes much breakage. Strips should also be placed across the doors to prevent the barrels on the upper layer from falling against and jamming the doors.

The sack, it is said, is not a suitable container for tender new potatoes; it offers no protection from bruising, and when loaded is hard to ventilate. If sacks are to be used they should be of no greater capacity than 120 pounds. This size sack can be handled with much greater care and lends itself to ventilation better than larger sizes. Neither are hampers, it is said, suitable packages for potatoes. They do not have the necessary strength for the weight of their contents, and offer little protection for the potatoes.

Crates of various sorts are being used, and, according to reports, appear satisfactory where the strength of the crate is sufficient for the weight of its contents. Weak crates should not be used under any circumstances, and crates with wide opening tend to wilt the potatoes while in transit. Crates must be loaded tightly and firmly, and no slack space left without suitable bracing, while stripping is recommended.

No matter what container is used, it is said, the grower should exercise great care to keep diseased and injured potatoes out of it. A very high percentage of the cars arriving at northern markets show much scab, bacteria wilt, late blight, or all three. Growers should also see that their packages are well filled. Weak packages should not be used.

MONOTONY DRIVES AMERICAN YOUTH FROM THE FARMS

FUTURE OF AMERICA RESTS WITH THE COMING GENERATION OF FARMERS; MUST KEEP THEM ON THE FARMS.

Milwaukee, Wis., June 24— The monotony and thrift gone to seed are driving children from American farm homes, in the opinion of Colonel Homer Folks who addressed the Sixteenth Annual Conference of the National Child Labor Committee here today.

Colonel Folks, who is vice-president of the Committee and secretary of the New York State Charities Aid Association, has just returned from Europe where he was helping to organize the new Child Health Program of The American Red Cross. Colonel Folks spent his time principally in Poland, Serbia, Czecho-Slovakia and the Baltic States, where he made a special study of the farming districts.

Farmers Save Europe

"It is the farm population that is saving Europe," he said. "It is the farm population that must also preserve America, for farming is the basis of our prosperity."

He went on to contrast the problems that face the European farmers with those confronting the men of his country. "There", he said, "they need horses, seed and tools. They have the land, and they have the labor. In America they have all the necessary supplies and implements, but they are losing the boys and girls who should constitute the future farming class just at the age of their greatest potential usefulness."

Youth Must Have Stimulus

"These young people are deserting the country for two reasons," added Colonel Folks, "monotony and lack of money". Discussing the former cause, he went on: "There is little stimulus in farm life as it is lived in most places - little incentive for the ambitious, or inspiration for those who feel the impulse to new and big things. It seems like an ever-recurring round of monotous drudgery calculated to kill just those qualities that make youth valuable to the race."

He advocated vitalization of the school as one remedy for this disease, declaring that the teaching should be brought into touch with the children's environment, should deal more with the factors that make their daily existence, and less with the history and geography of distant ages and lands. "City people spend too much", he asserted. "Farmers spend too little - particularly on their children."

Why Suffer from Rheumatism?

Do you know that nine out of every ten cases of rheumatism are simply rheumatism of the muscles or chronic rheumatism, neither of which require any internal treatment? The pain may be relieved by applying Chamberlain's Liniment, which makes sleep and rest possible, and that certainly means a great deal to any one afflicted with rheumatism.

A Man for the Ages

A Story of the Builders of Democracy

By Irving Bacheller

Copyright, Irving Bacheller

"Even rags could not hide the beauty of him," said Kelso as he came down from the porch to greet them. "And look at her," he went on. "Was there ever a fairer maid in spite of all her troubles? See the red in her cheeks and the diamond glow of youth and health in her eyes. You should see the young men sighing and guitaring around her."

"You'll hear me tuning up," Harry declared.

"That is father's way of comforting my widowhood," said Bim. "He has made a wonderful beauty mask and often he claps it on me and whistles up a band of sighing lovers. As a work of the imagination I am a great success."

"The look of you sets my heart afire again," the boy exclaimed.

"Come—take mother and me to the party at Mrs. Kinzie's," said Bim. "A very grand young man was coming to take us in a wonderful carriage, but he's half an hour late now. We won't wait for him."

So the three set out together afoot for Mrs. Kinzie's, while Samson sat down for a visit with Jack Kelso.

The Kinzies' house was of brick and larger and more pretentious than any in Chicago. Its lawn, veranda and parlor were crowded with people in a curious variety of costumes.

Nearly all the festive company wore diamonds. They scintillated on fingers, some of which were knotted with toil; they glowed on shirt bosoms and morning as well as evening gowns; on necks and ears, which should have been spared the emphasis of jewels.

Col. Zachary Taylor, who had just arrived from Florida and was presently returning with a regiment of recruits for the Seminole war, was at Mrs. Kinzie's party. He remembered Harry and took him in hand and introduced him to many of his friends as the best scout in the Black Hawk war, and, in spite of his dress, the young man became one of the lions of the evening.

After refreshments the men went outside to smoke and talk—some with pipes—of canals, railroads and corner lots in the city and two acres on the prairie half a mile from town. They got their deeds and went to the Kelsos to bid them good-by.

After hearty farewells Samson and Harry set out for their home. They were not again to see the gentle face and hear the pleasant talk of Jack Kelso. He had once said, in the presence of Samson, that it is well to remember, always, that things can not go on with us as they are. Changes come—slowly and quite according to our calculations, or so swiftly and unexpectedly that they fill us with confusion. Learned and wise in the weighty problems of humanity he had little prudence in regulating the affairs of his own family.

Kelso had put every dollar he had and some that he hoped to have into land. Bim, who had been teaching in one of the schools, had invested all her savings in a dream city on the shore of an unconstructed canal.

Like many who had no experience with such phenomena they underestimated the seriousness of the panic. They thought that, in a week or so, its effect would pass and that Illinois would then resume its triumphal march toward its high destiny. Not even Samson Traylor had a correct notion of the slowness of Time.

The effect of the panic paralyzed the city. Men whose "red-dog money" was in every one's pocket closed their shops and ran away. The wild adventurers cleared out. Their character may be judged by the words of one, of them reported by the editor of the Democrat:

"I failed for a hundred thousand dollars and could have failed for a million, if Jackson had kept his hands off."

Hard times hung like a cloud over the city. Its population suffered some diminishment in the next two years, in spite of its position on the main highway of trade. Dream cities, canals and railroads built without hands became part of the poetry of American commerce.

That autumn, men and women who had come to Mrs. Kinzie's party in jewels and in purple and fine linen had left or turned their hands to hard labor. The Kelsos suffered real distress, the schools being closed and the head of the house having taken to his bed with illness. Bim went to work as a seamstress, and with the help of Mrs. Kinzie and Mrs. Hubbard was able to keep the family from want. The nursing and the care of the baby soon broke the health of Mrs. Kelso, never a strong woman. Bim came home from her work one evening and found her mother ill.

"Cheer up, my daughter," said Jack. "An old friend of ours has returned to the city. He is a rich man—an oasis in the desert of poverty. He has loaned me a hundred dollars in good coin."

"Who has done this?" Bim asked.

"Mr. Lionel Davis."

"We must not take his money," said Bim.

"I had a long talk with him," Kelso went on. "He has explained that unfortunate incident of the horse. It was a bit of offhand folly born of an anxious moment."

"But the man wants to marry me."

"He said nothing of such a purpose."

"He will be in no hurry about that," said Bim. "He is a shrewd operator. Every one hates him. They say that he knew what was coming when he sold out."

That evening Bim wrote a long letter to Samson Traylor, telling him of the evil days which had come to them. This letter, now in possession of a great grandson of Samson and Sarah Traylor, had a singular history. It reached the man to whom it was addressed in the summer of 1844. It was found with many others that summer in Tazewell county under a barn which its owner was removing. It brought to mind the robbery of the stage from Chicago, south of the sycamore woods, in the autumn of '37, by a man who had ridden with the driver from Chicago and who, it was thought, had been in collusion with him. A curious feature of the robbery had been revealed by the discovery of the mail sack. It was unopened, its contents undisturbed, its rusty padlock still in place. The perpetrator of the crime had not soiled his person with any visible evidence of guilt and so was never apprehended.

Then for a time Bim entered upon great trials. Jack Kelso weakened. Burning with fever, his mind wandered in the pleasant paths he loved and saw in its fancy the deeds of Ajax and Achilles and the topless towers of Ilium and came not back again to the vulgar and prosaic details of life. The girl knew not what to do. A funeral was a costly thing. She had no money. The Kinzies had gone on a hunting trip in Wisconsin. Mrs. Hubbard was ill and the Kelsos already much in her debt. Mr. Lionel Davis came.

help you to be sure to know yourself a little better and to be sure of what you want to do."

"I think that I know myself fairly well," he answered. "There are so many better men who want to marry you! I shall go away with a great fear in me."

"There are no better men," she answered. "When you get back we shall see what comes of our little romance. Meanwhile I'm going to pray for you."

"And I for you," he said as he followed her into the house, where the older people sat waiting for them. Harry gave the papers to Bim to be signed and attested and forwarded to Mr. Stuart in Springfield.

On their way to the hotel Samson said to Harry:

"I don't believe Bim is going to be carried away by any of these high-flyers. She's getting to be a very sensible person. Poor Jack has caught the plague. He has invested in land. Thinks it will make him rich. He's in poor health, too—kidney trouble—and Bim has a baby with all the rest—a beautiful boy. I went upstairs and saw him asleep in his cradle. Looks like her. Hair as yellow as gold, light complexion, blue eyes, handsome as a picture."

That night, in the office of the City hotel, they found Mr. Lionel Davis in the midst of a group of excited speculators. In some way he had got across the prairies and was selling his land and accepting every offer on the plea that he was going into the grain business in St. Louis and had to leave Chicago next day. He choked the market with bargains. The buyers began to back off. Mr. Davis closed his carpet bag and left.

"It was a kind of horse stealin'," said Samson as they were going to bed. "He got news down there on the main road by pony express on its way to St. Louis. I'll bet there's been a panic in the East. He's awake and the others are still dreamin'."

CHAPTER XIX.

Wherein Is One of the Many Private Panics Which Followed the Bursting of the Bubble of Speculation.

Samson and Harry saw the bursting of the great bubble of '37. Late that night, Disaster, loathsome and thousand-legged, crept into the little city. It came on a steamer from the East and hastened from home to home, from tavern to tavern. Great banks had suspended payment; New York had suffered a panic; many large business enterprises in the East had failed; certain agents for the bonds of Illinois had absconded with the state's money; in the big cities there had been an ominous closing of doors and turning of locks; a great army of men were out of employment. The little city was in a frenzy of excitement. The streets were filled with a shouting, half-crazed throng. New fortunes had shrunk to nothing and less than nothing in a night. Lots in the city were offered for a tithe of what their market value had been. Davis had known that the storm would arrive with the first steamer and in the slang of business had put on a life-preserver. Samson knew that the time to buy was when every one wanted to sell. He bought two corner lots in the city and two acres on the prairie half a mile from town. They got their deeds and went to the Kelsos to bid them good-by.

COMPLETE MONUMENT IN MEMORY OF CUSTER

Hardin, Mont.—The monument in memory of General George A. Custer, to be unveiled on June 25, the forty-fifth anniversary of the battle of the Little Big Horn, has been completed in the city park here. The memorial, paid for by popular subscription of citizens of Hardin and Big Horn county, is of Montana gray granite and bears two bronze plates, one showing Custer's profile and the other giving the date and place of his birth and his military record.

Plans for the celebration, which will include a reproduction of the massacre of Custer's command by Indians enacted by United States cavalrymen American Legion members and Crow Indians, provide also for an exhibit of several historical objects, it is announced by the Custer Battle Anniversary association, in charge of the affair. They will include one of Custer's original regimental flags and what is declared to be the first full-page newspaper account of the battle, published immediately after it was fought.

The battle is to be refought on the site of the original conflict, now a government reservation.

CONSOLIDATE KANSAS COUNTRY SCHOOLS

Garden City, Kan.—What is described as one of the most elaborate and complete consolidated school plants in America has just been dedicated at Holcomb, seven miles west of Garden City on the western Kansas prairie. The plant cost $225,000.

Seven school districts joined to construct the single plant where the pupils may have the advantages of a city school, including manual training, domestic science and scientific training of several varieties. Six one-room schools of the old type and a three-room school at Holcomb were abandoned in favor of the consolidated project.

The pupils are transported to the school by motor busses driven by teachers who receive $20 a month for this extra work. The busses have a capacity of thirty to forty pupils each.

The Holcomb consolidated school district has an area of 123 1-2 square miles. The school population at present is 375. The new plant has a capacity of 650 grade and high school pupils.

The consolidated school group consists of seven buildings in all, with others to be added later, a first class farm for instruction in practical agriculture, and a large athletic field. In addition to the main high school building and a graded school building, there is a large garage for housing the motor busses, a cottage for the superintendent, a faculty home, cottage for the agricultural instructor and farm superintendent, and a cottage for the janitor.

GRANT COUNTY SHERIFF NABS IOWA BEER TRUCK

Dubuque—E. B. Smith of Rock Island, Ill., was arrested by Sheriff R. P. Holmes of Grant county, Wisconsin, and a truck containing twenty-five kegs of beer was confiscated. Paul Kiefler of East Dubuque was arrested near Dickeyville, Wis., when his car was found to contain five kegs of beer. The prisoners were taken to Lancaster, Wis., and will await court action. A careful watch on automobiles and trucks is to be kept by the officials on both sides of the river in the future, Sheriff Holmes announced.

WHAT TO DO WITH CHEESE.

With cheese the suggested composition of the moon and equally as high in price, we have been careful in the amounts used. At present, however, it is getting back somewhat to its old price and it will be more generally used. Cheese is a valuable food, being highly concentrated and with no waste. One needs to consume twice as much beef, pound for pound, as cheese in order to have the same food value. Beef contains more iron than cheese, but this can be supplied by green vegetables. Cheese contains more lime than meat and much less is needed to make a satisfying meal. There are any number of combinations with cheese which will take the place of meat and add an infinite variety to the menu.

Wisconsin produces a large part of all the cheese made in the United States and the "buy at home" slogan should be kept in mind when marketing. Imported cheeses are very popular, but at present nearly every variety is produced in the United States and in many cases of superior quality.

The gastronomic delights of bread and cheese and kisses we have been taught are the sine qua non of living and though the sanitary board bars the latter we still have cheese and bread with which to worry along. The following dishes will help in suggesting a few of the ways we may use this delicious food:

Cheese With Celery.—Cook the coarser portions of celery cut in half-inch pieces, or the root of celeriac may be used cut in dice. Place a layer of celery in the bottom of a well-buttered baking dish. Cover with grated or finely cut cheese, using as much or little as the occasion or supply demands, then add a few spoonfuls of a rich white sauce made of two tablespoonfuls each of butter and flour cooked together and one cupful of rich milk added; salt and pepper to taste. Repeat, having the white sauce on top, then sprinkle thickly with buttered crumbs and bake in a moderate oven until the crumbs are well browned. Serve from the dish. Once tried, this will be a cherished recipe.

Nellie Maxwell

A Scene of Furniture.

It was reserved to Hogarth to write a scene of furniture. The rake's levee-room, the nobleman's dining-room, the apartments of the husband and wife in "Marriage-a-la-Mode" the alderman's parlor, the poet's bed-chamber, and many others, are the history of the manners of the age.—Horace Walpole.

Artificial Eyes.

Today there are probably more artificial eyes in the world than there have ever been before, yet so excellent is the workmanship used in their manufacture that they can very seldom be detected. The artificial eye, however, will not serve the wearer forever. There are certain orbital fluids which destroy the enamel, thus involving considerable expense for renewal. In view of this, celluloid is often used instead of glass, and lasts longer. The minutest details are carefully reproduced even in the veins on the eyeball and the broken color of a hazel iris.

RUSSIA PUSHING FRIENDSHIP WITH THE NEAR EAST

MAKING RAPID STRIDES IN GAINING FRIENDSHIP OF THE ORIENTAL POWERS; CATER TO THE WANTS OF OTHERS

Riga, Latvia— Recent arrivals from Moscow declare that the world little realizes how closely Soviet Russia is pushing its friendship with the Near East.

In Moscow now the Turkish legation occupies one of the most sumptuous of the old palaces and the personnel, garbed in faultless European clothes, present a strange contrast to the poorly garbed Muscovites. The Afghans and other Near Eastern delegations also occupy luxurious quarters, give elaborate banquets and otherwise carry on all the pomp of the old Eastern courts.

Members of Lenine's government are frequently guests at these affairs and entertain the legation personnels equally lavishly in return.

Exchange presents

Besides this, Lenine has so accomodated himself to the psychology of the East that he now exchanges presents with the rulers of Turkey, Persia, etc., as did the rulers of ancient days.

A Moscow dispatch today reads like a paragraph from what might have been an ancient tablet of hieroglyphics describing the visit of a Babylonian envoy to King cyrus of Persia. It says: "The representative of the Soviet government has made his first official visit to the Shah of Persia, presenting to the Shah on a golden salver an album with photography of Soviet leaders of the whole Russia as a personal present to the Shah from Lenine."

Agree With Ancient Customs

A man who recently arrived from Moscow said: "Few persons realize what a close connection now exists between Russia and its old enemy, Turkey, and for that matter all of the Near East. Lenine is accomplishing here what the old Russian government could not do by playing up to Eastern psychology.

"The so-called Bolshevism in these Eastern countries is nothing at all like the Bolshevism of Moscow but in each case the Russian agitators have a distinct brand of propaganda designed to dovetail with ancient customs of the country in question. For instance, in regions where the trade bazaars is a century old custom, no agitation against free trade has been made."

Walking on Snow.

With the snowshoe, with its broad, latticed, rawhide bottom, serviceable in walking over soft snow, the wearer does not expect to develop much speed, says the American Forestry Magazine. The sport consists in walking on snow so soft that, without such appendages, he would sink into it. Northern hunters in former times made their own shoes with hatchet and knife, and if leather thongs were not at hand, the lattice soles could be woven of basswood bark, which can be stripped in winter as well as in summer.

Out of the Rut.

The fiddlers three had just responded to old King Cole's hurry call. "Too many strings in the band, boys," said his majesty, "and you've got exactly one week from now to show me some real luxzbo stuff as torn off by a muted cornet, a saxaphone and a set o' drums with all the trimmings. And if you don't make good, gadzooks and odsbodikins, you'd do well to settle your worldly affairs. Get me?"—Buffalo Express.

THIS MAN DIED IN ORDER TO LIVE AGAIN

Although a posse was close upon his heels, Captain Swift, the notorious Australian bandit, paused long enough to carry a dying man to a waterhole and give him a drink. The man was so far gone that he died and Captain Swift changed identity with him in order to elude the pursuers. Thus Earle Williams lays the foundation for one of the strongest roles of his career as a screen star. It is a picturization of the famous stage play "Captain Swift."

SOCIALIST PARTY DIVIDED; FACTIONS ROW OVER POLICY

AFFILIATION WITH RUSSIAN GOVERNMENT IS BIG CAUSE OF SPLIT; MAJORITY AGAINST PLAN.

Detroit, Mich., June 23— International relations of the socialist party and the disputed question of affiliation with the Russian Soviets will be the paramount problems when the socialist national convention opens in Northeastern High School Saturday. The executive committee meets here tomorrow to complete the convention plans.

Radicals a Minority

The radical left wing has prepared to make its stand on a motion for complete acceptance of the conditions laid down by Moscow for affiliation of Americans socialists with the Third International, but conservative party leaders predict the extremists will muster not more than five of the convention's fifty votes on this motion.

Moscow's terms, 21 in all, include abandonment of the party name in favor of "Communist Party of America," expulsion of Morris Hillquit, of New York, who is a convention delegate, and all other moderates and "petty-bourgeois" elements; and absolute submission to the Communist International Congress at Moscow.

Three other motions relating to international affiliations have been included in the convention agenda. One seeks to reopen negotiations with the Russians in hope of more favorable terms. It is opposed by Otto Branstetter, national secretary, Morris Hillquit and other moderates as a waste of time. Another resolution proposes affiliation with the recently formed International Working Union of Socialist Parties, organized at Vienna by the British Labor Union, the Longuet faction in France, Swiss and Austrian socialists, German Independents and various Balkan factions. The conservatives are expected to support either this resolution or a fourth, which says:

"The Socialist Party of the United States considers that its paramount duty is to build a powerful, revolutionary, Socialist organization in this country. * * * Until This task is accomplished it is resolved to remain without international affiliations."

Bitter Fight Expected

A second fight is expected to break over a resolution authorising the national executive committee to expel all socialists endorsing the Third (Communist) International, or advocating affiliation therewith.

J. Louis Engdahl, Editor of the Chicago "Socialist" and one of the left wing delegates of the convention, recently issued a statement attacking this resolution which, he said, is sponsored by Otto Branstetter, the national secretary. "For two years now the party officialdom has been busy expelling and driving out of the party those comrades who have taken a stand with the Third International," Engdahl said. "Yet the desire for affiliation with the International is still alive among what remains of the party's dwindling ranks."

Soviets Against Socialists

Branstetter, in reply, denied that any members had been expelled since the communist split of two years ago, when 35,000 socialists were thrown out.

"The justification for the resolution, and for its adoption and enforcement," Branstatter said, "is found in the proclamation of the Communist International refusing our application for affiliation, which contains the following:

"'WORKERS: Leave the American Socialist Party. It is your enemy and ours. Already in America there is a revolutionary party,' the United Communist Party, the American section of the Communist International. These are our true comrades. Thousands of them have suffered for the revolution. This is the party of the revolutionary working class. Join the United Communist Party!'"

The conservatives have another resolution defining political action by the socialists as "participation in elections for the public office and practical legislative and administrative work" while the left wing will present an alternative motion which defines political action as "any organized, concerted endeavor on the part of the working class to influence the processes of government."

The two factions are also opposed on the question of the soviet system. The left wing will move its eventual adoption in America, while the Branstetter group sponsors a motion which says:

"A Delegated Power"

The Socialist Party is opposed to the establishment of a Soviet form of government in the United States because it is a system of delegated power which deprives the working class of any direct voice in the election of responsible public officials."

A motion on immigration favors a free movement of immigrants, except "when artificially stimulated for the purpose of flooding the labor market or of breaking strikes."

The convention is expected to last five days.

BLIND HERO WILL DELIVER ADDRESS

VETERAN OF THE WAR WILL ADDRESS WOUNDED VETERANS AT THEIR FIRST ANNUAL CONVENTION; . IS NOTED SPEAKER.

Detroit, Mich., June 20—A blind hero of the World War will be the center of attraction at the formal opening of the first annual convention of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War, here on June 27. He is Michael Aaronson, Rabbi and student of the Hebrew Union College, Cincinnati, who as chaplain of the Disabled American Veterans will deliver the invocation at the first days' session of the Veterans.

Wanted in Argonne

Rabbi Aaronson at the outbreak of the war enlisted and served in the 147th Infantry. Both of his eyes were blown out when in the capture of Montfaucon in the Argonne, he was struck by a shell as he was bringing back wounded American soldiers.

Capt. Robert S. Marx, judge of the Superior court of Cincinnati, national president has announced that on Monday, June 27, there will be a reception of delegations.

Tuesday, June 28 addresses of welcome will be delivered by Governor Groesbeck of Michigan and Mayor Cousins of Detroit. Ambassador Jusserand of France will deliver the greeting to the Republic of France, and if General John J. Pershing can be present he probably will make an address. General Pershing has notified Capt. Marx he will either be present or send a personal greeting.

Parade Will be Feature

In the afternoon a parade will be held which will include floats visualizing the problems confronting the disabled soldier and what is being done to help him. Tuesday evening there will be a French fete at Belle Isle, given by the United French Society of Detroit.

On Wednesday there will be a business sesion and an addres by Uel Lamkin, Director of the Federal Board for Vocational Education. Mr. Lamkin has 77,000 disabled soldiers in training and he will tell about their activities.

MEN WORK ALL NIGHT TO KEEP DAM INTACT

Marshall, Colo.—Working by moon and lantern light more than a hundred men fought frantically all Wednesday night with picks, shovels, and road scrapers to reinforce the crumbling clay of the big Marshall dam. The dam was still standing on Thursday, but was weakened so it may give way at any moment.

LAST RITES FOR MILTON PRESIDENT SATURDAY

Milton, Wis.—Funeral services for William Chifton Daland, 60 years old, president of Milton College for nineteen years, will be held Saturday afternoon from the Seventh Day Baptist church, Milton.

The Rev. Henry N. Jordan of Milton will officiate and members of the college faculty will act as pallbearers.

In accordance with a wish of Mrs. Daland, the services will be simple. The body arrived on Thursday from Battle Creek, Mich., where he died on Tuesday.

ATTORNEY GENERAL TO CROWN CHERRY QUEEN

Sturgeon Bay, Wis.—Attorney General Morgan will crown Door county's "Cherry Queen," in the contest which is now under way and closes the first day of the big Cherry festival, July 4.

Interest is running high in the election for the quseu and nominations now number over forty pretty maidens from all portions of the county. The winner will receive a cash prize or if she prefers a diamond of equivalent value; second choice will receive a handsome white gold wrist watch.

Attorney General Morgan also will deliver the address at Peninsula state park, July 3. The outdoor festivities will take place on Eagle terrace.

Recommends Chamberlain's Tablets

"Chamberlain's Tablets have been used by my husband and myself off and on for the past five years. When my husband goes away from home he always takes a bottle of them along with him. Whenever I have heavy feeling after eating, or feel dull and played out, I take one or two of Chamberlain's Tablets and they fix me up fine," writes Mrs. Newton Vreeland, Minoa, N. Y. Take these tablets when troubled with constipation or indigestion and they will do you good.

WAS CONFIED TO HOUSE TWO YEARS

Wonderful Restoration of Milwaukee Woman Almost Beyond Belief, Declares Husband.

"It's a fact, after my wife had taken the first bottle of Tanlac she was able to get up and walk two blocks to call on friends and it was the first time she had been able to leave the house in two years," was the remarkable statement made by Fred Hildebrandt, 938 Allis St., Milwaukee, Wis., an iron worker for Bayley Manufacturing Company.

"She had stomach trouble in a bad form and I have heard her say she had suffered from it more or less all of her life. For the past two years her condition was desperate and at times I gave up hope of ever seeing her well again. I never saw anybody suffer like she did and she grew weaker and thinner every day. She was up one day and down the next, but for two years was too weak to leave the house. She had no appetite and for three months before taking Tanlac hadn't eaten a good meal.

"I never saw anything to equal the change Tanlac made in her. She is a well and happy woman today, with a splendid appetite and everything she eats seems to agree with her. It certainly does my heart good to see her looking th picture of health and I believe our home today is the happiest in Milwaukee. Tanlac is great." On sale at Model Drug Store. adv
